

Testimonials are great but what really matters is "IMPROVING" and doing the things that matter most to you.

Disney's Aladdin - Mena Massoud earned the starring role as Aladdin, opposite Will Smith and Naomi Scott. Mena had already established himself as an actor. Then he decided to audition for Aladdin and get some coaching; prepping for auditions for the film. Lucky for me, a former student and Mena's close friend connected us.

As a non-singer it was my pleasure and also my responsibility to make him sound like a pro and help him make it through the Aladdin audition process. Sometimes it can be a challenge convincing singers that they "can do it", particularly when singing is often thought of as a gift rather than the craft that it is. So, you can probably imagine how Mena must have felt. His hard work paid off.

With his okay of course, here are a few pictures from his very first audition piece. The first picture is of him singing "A Whole New World". The second picture is my favourite, because it shows the look on his face when he finished singing the song. He knew at that moment that he had nailed it and had something really good to send to his agent and Disney.

I couldn't be happier or more excited to see someone as genuine and hardworking as Mena, land the role of a lifetime.

"I just wanted to take some time to tell you that I have been accepted to, and will be attending Berklee College of Music in Boston.

All my recent accomplishments in music I must share with you, because without you, I would not have gotten to the place I am at now. Those years ago when I first started with you and even now have changed so much, and I notice ever time I sing the progress I have made. And I owe so much of that to you. This is my passion and I have such a need for it in life, and I wanted to take a moment to thank you very very very much.

Keep inspiring people and moving personal mountains for them."
